New insights from national experts and peer collaboration on cutting-edge patient safety challenges. This workshop will highlight powerful new qualification standards and the methods behind them to enhance patient safety and quality care. That is what this year's MAPS PSO Annual Culture of Safety Workshop offers, along with dynamic discussions on how to strengthen your organization's patient safety culture.

Registration is now open for our annual workshop, a one-day virtual event with a robust agenda addressing Just Culture and High Reliability on Oct. 17. Exclusively for MAPS PSO and IRMS members, the event is complimentary as part of your membership.

Plenary sessions on Day 1 include:

- “Building a Collaborative Just Culture Program in Your Organization” by K. Scott Griffith, Author, Founder and Managing partner of SG Collaborative Solutions, LLC
- “The How: Preparing Your Organization for Collaborative Just Culture Qualification” by Dale Oda, MD, Chief Medical Advisor, SG Collaborative Solutions, LLC
- “Scientific Principles of Collaborative Just Culture and Collaborative High Reliability” by K. Scott Griffith and Dale Oda, MD

Because member engagement is critical to our collective efforts, we urge you to join as teams or pass this link along to other staff. The workshop also offers continuing education credits for nurses and certificates of attendance. For questions about registration, please contact Tammy De Leonardis with MAPS PSO or Lisa Galvan with IRMS.
